

Do you have a child between the ages of 12-15 months?

Has your child received the initial pneumococcal vaccine series?

Your child may qualify for a research study to test an investigational vaccine for pneumococcal infection.

If qualified, your child will receive all study-related doctor visits at no additional cost to you. The benefits and risks of participating will be explained by the study doctor.

To learn more about this study and see if your child is eligible to participate, please contact us at:
